

Under der linden

Walther von der Vogelweide (fl. c. 1200)

Trans. Carol Anne Perry Lagemann (SCA Kasha Alekseeva)

1. Un - der the lin - den in the wild - lands, Where lay our co - zy —
2. In - to the vale I — walked se - rene - ly, And Frie - del wait - ed —
3. Wait - ing he made of flo - wers proud - ly A soft and silk - y —
4. If a - ny knew we lay to - ge - ther, God for - bid, how a - bed for two, You will dis - co - ver the place he piled strands for me there Like I'm a wo - man so great and queen - ly; place to lie. The sight would speak all our se - crets loud - ly shamed I'd be. The things we did no one, no one e - ver

4

7

Of love - ly flo - wers in the dew. Near the for - est in a vale,
I won't for - get his hum - ble care. From a thou - sand kiss - es' thrill,
To a - ny - one who hap - pened by Ros - es crushed and torn a - way,
Must learn a - bout but him and me And a ti - ny lit - tle bird,

11

Tan - de - ra - dei, Sweet - ly — sang the — night - in - gale.
Tan - de - ra - dei, See how red my — mouth is still.
Tan - de - ra - dei, Mark - ing — where my — bo - dy lay,
Tan - de - ra - dei, Who will ne - ver — speak a word.